Old Bullion's Bride.

Let me see—where was it that I first met her? Oh, yes, it was under the superb arches of High Bridge, boating by moonlight. A globe of reddish pearl slowly ascended out of the East—the shadows of the great bridge resting softly on the mirror-like surface of the Hudson river; the sound of a flute played softly afar off, and all of a sudden the keel of my boat came sharply in contact with somebody else's oars.

"Hallo, you!" cried out a clear incisive young voice. "Where are you going to? Why don't you look which way you are steering?"

"Charley Dresden!" cried out I, little heeding the torrents of obloquy he was beginning to heap upon me.

"Old Mottimore," he responded joyously. "Why, who on earth would have thought of finding you dreaming on Harlem River. Here! Come into my boat; hitch on your old craft behind, and let me introduce you to Miss Sophy Adriance."

I looked as sharply at Miss Sophy as the moonlight and my own modesty would let me, for I knew that she was the especial admiration of my friend Charley Dresden.

She was pretty, slight, round and rosy, with china-blue eyes, a dimple in either cheek, and golden-brown hair worn in long, loose curls. There was something flower-like and delicate in her prettiness—something unconsciously imploring in her way of lifting her eyes up to your face.

We rowed home together—or, at least as far on our way home as the Harlem River would take us. Sophy sang little boat ballads Charley roared, out tenor barcarolles. I even essayed a German student song which I had learned in Heidelberg no one knows how long ago, and we parted the best of friends.

A week afterward Dresden and I met face to face on Wall street.

"Hallo, Mottimore!" said Charley, his honest visage lighting up. What do you think of her?"

"I think she is a pearl—a jewel—a princess among women!" I answered, with perfect sincerity.

"Congratulate me, then!" cried Charley, beaming all over, "for I am engaged to her! Only last night! Look here!" opening a mysterious silver case which he took from his inner vest pocket. "What do you think of that for an engagement ring?"

"A fine diamond," said I, putting my head critically on one side; "and fancifully set."

"We're to be married in October," said Charley, lowering his voice to the most confidential tones. "It might have been sooner if I hadn't undertaken that business in Europe for our firm. But I shall be sure to be back by October, and the money I shall make will be acceptable toward fitting up and furnishing our new home. Because, you know, Mottimore, I'm not rich."

I spent an evening with her afterward at the genteel boarding house where she and her mother—a nice, bright-eyed little woman, the full-blown rose to correspond with Sophy's budding loveliness—dwelt in the cosiest of apartments, furnished in dark blue reps, with a turn-up bedstead, ingeniously disguised as a high-backed sofa, and canaries and geraniums in the windows.

"It is so kind of you to come," Sophy, with a gentle pressure of the hand when I went away. "I am so glad to welcome Charley's friends."

And I felt that I could cheerfully sit through another evening of commonplace chit chat and photograph albums for such a reward as that.

Well, Charley Dresden went away, and as he didn't particularly leave Sophy Adriance in my charge, I didn't feel called upon to present myself at the genteel boarding house. I supposed, naturally enough, that all was going right, until one day I received a note form my old friend, Bullion, the banker, a man of sixty, who wears a wig and spectacles, and counts his income upon the double figures.

Bullion wrote from Saratoga, where he had gone because he didn't know what else to do with himself in the dull season. He asked me to be his groomsman. Bullion was going to be married.

"Of course, you'll think it a foolish thing for me to do," wrote Bullion; "but even at 60 a man has not entirely outlived the age of sentiment; and when once you see Sophy Adriance you will forgive any seeming inconsistency on my part."

I went straight to the genteel boarding house. It was possible that I might be misled by a similarity of name, although even that was unlikely.

"Is Miss Adriance at home?" I asked of the slatternly servant girl who answered the bell.

"No, sir. Miss Sophy's spending a few weeks with a friend at Saratoga," she answered promptly.

That was enough. I went home and inclosed Bullion's letter in another envelope, directing it to poor Charley Dresden's address, Poste Restante, Vienna, adding a few lines of my own, wherein I endeavored to mingle consolation and philosophy as aptly as possible.

And then I wrote, curtly declining to "stand up" with old Bullion.

It was but a few weeks subsequently that the waiter showed an elegantly dressed young lady into my room at the hotel. I rose in some surprise. Aside from old Aunt Miriam Platt and my laundress, my lady visitors were few. But the instant she threw up her thick tissue veil I recognized the soft blue eyes and damask rose cheeks of Sophy Adriance.

"Oh, Mr. Mottimore!" she cried piteously, "I know you wouldn't mind my coming to your parlor, because you seem exactly like a father to me." I winced a little at this. "But I have received such a letter from Charley, and as—as you've known him a long time, I thought perhaps you could explain it to me. Oh, I have been so wretched. And indeed, indeed, I didn't deserve it!"

She gave me a tear-blotted letter and then sat down to cry quietly in the corner of the sofa until such time as I should have finished its perusal.

"What does he mean, Mr. Mottimore?" asked Sophy plaintively, "when he accuses me of deceiving him, of selling myself to the highest bidder? Oh, it is so dreadful!"

I folded the letter and looked severely at her.

"Miss Adriance," said I, gravely, "it strikes me you are trying to play a double part here. The affianced bride of Benjamin Bullion ought hardly to hope to retain the allegiance of poor Charley Dresden into the bargain."

"I don't understand you," said Sophy, looking wistfully at me.

"Are you not to become the wife of Mr. Bullion, the banker?" I asked, sternly.

"Oh, dear, no," said Sophy. "That's mamma!"

"Eh?" gasped I.

"It's mamma," answered Sophy. "She's to be married next week! Didn't you know it?"

I stared straight before me. Well, I had got myself into a pretty pickle by meddling officiously in affairs that didn't concern me.

"Look here, Miss Adriance," said I: "I will tell you all about it."

So I did. I described old Bullion's letter, my own false deductions therefrom, and the rash deed I had committed in sending the banker's correspondence to Charley Dresden.

"And now," said I, "do you wonder that he is indignant?"

Sophy's face grew radiant.

"But there's no harm done," said she. "No real harm, I mean. Because I've written him a long letter all about mamma and Mr. Bullion, which he must have received almost the next mail after he sent off this cruel, cruel sheet of reproaches."

Sophy was a true prophet. There was no "real harm" done. The next mail brought a letter full of entreaties to be pardoned, and a brief, brusque note to me.

I stood up with old Ben. Bullion, and that full-blown rose, Sophy's mamma, after all; and when Charley Dresden came home I cut the big wedding cake at his marriage feast.

The lover's fatal blunder:—'Lousie,' said he, as they, despising a plurality of chairs, and practising an economy of gas, sat in the parlor together, a few evenings before the honeymoon, 'I ought to tell you that I belong to a Masonic lodge, and have to attend its session; so dearest, when we are married you musn't fret if some evenings I have to be away from my little wifey.' And the designing villain chuckled at his prudence.

'Of course I won't, William,' she said softly; 'how many lodges do you belong to?'

'Only one, darling,' he answered.'

'And when does it meet?' How often?'

'On Wednesday evenings.'

'Very well; then I shall have you at home every other evening in the week—that will be so nice.'

As she took her tiny note book and made a memorandum on the subject, he felt that after all, he had made a mistake.

Says an exchange: A girl at sixteen wants a dude with tooth pick shoes and a microscopic moustache; at twenty, a chief justice with piles of tin; at twenty-five she'll be satisfied with a member of congress; at thirty, a country doctor or preacher will do; at thirty-five, an intinerant tinker; over thirty-five, anything that wears pants, from an editor up to a coachman.'

"TOM POORHOUSE."

The Old Clock takes the Farmer to Task for his Cruelty.

Which Drove a Poor Boy to Death and Made Himself a Raving Maniac.

The old clock down stairs began to strike midnight as he started up. The wind was making the old farmhouse rock and tremble, and the powder-like snow was driving in through every crevice. The wife slept undisturbed, but the old farmer was nervous and wakeful.

"Farmer Johns, are you awake?"

It was a voice which he had never heard before. It sounded close at his bedside, and yet, as he looked about the room, fairly lighted by the cold winter moon shining in through the window, he saw nothing but familiar objects.

"I am your accuser!" continued the voice; "I am a witness against you!"

"What have I done?" gasped Farmer Johns.

"Last fall you took a lad from the poorhouse—had one bound to you according to law."

"Sartin, sartin, and it was a poor speculation fur me. The boy hain't airned his salt."

"You broke him down in the harvest field, and when you knew that he was ill you refused him medicines! The boy hasn't seen a well day for three months."

"Yes, but boys are great shirks. How'd I know whether he was sick or or playing off on me?"

"You are lying to your conscience, Farmer Johns! How has that boy fared for provisions and clothes?"

"Hain't he got some of my old clothes on this very minnit?" protested the farmer. "They is full o' holes and patches, in course, but am I going to take a boy outer the poorhouse and dress him in broad-cloth? S'posen he does shiver a little—shiverin' don't hurt anybody! He gits 'nuff to eat, I reckon—leastwise all he airns. I ain't goin' to feed nobody on sweet-cake!"

"Think of his sleeping in that cold and dismal garret such a night as this!" whispered the accuser.

"All his own fault!" replied the farmer, "I gin him a chamber by himself, but he kept coughing and groanin' till I couldn't sleep. Put it all on to git sympathy, but he made a mistake. Me'n the old woman worked for what we've got, and others must do the same."

"A straw bed—a ragged quilt, and the night cold enough to chill an ox!" accused the voice.

"Oh! pshaw! You can't make me believe the boys of to-day are so much more tender'n the boys of my time. It hain't healthy fur boys to sleep too warm. He'll warm up at the wood pile as soon as daylight comes."

"Farmer Johns, no true Christian talks as you do. You have neither mercy nor charity!"

"Pooh! Got lot of it! And if I wasn't a Christian man how'd I git to be a deacon in the church? That boy is a heap better off'n most of 'em."

"His body is black and blue from the pounding you have inflicted."

"Well, he shouldn't oversleep then."

"You have a heart of stone, Farmer Johns. If that boy dies you will be accused at the judgement seat of his murder!"

"Nonsense! Nobody feels any more pity for poor folks than I do, and if 'Tom Poorhouse' dies it will be of eating too much."

"This is the oldest patient we have in the asylum," said the guide, as we halted at the lower end of the ward.

It was a grated door. I looked through and saw an old man cowering in a corner. After a moment he rose up and approached the door and whispered:

"And at daylight I called and called him, but he didn't git up. I went up with the horse-whip to teach him better'n to oversleep on me that way, but Tom Poorhouse was dead on his straw bed, and the snow had blowed in till it almost kivered him up."—Detroit Free Press.

The Oldest Bank Note.

The oldest bank note probably in existence in Europe is one preserved in the Asiatic Museum at St. Petersburg. It dates from the year 1399 B. C., and was issued by the Chinese Government. It can be proved from Chinese chroniclers that, as early as 2697 B. C., bank notes were current in China under the name of 'flying money.' The bank note preserved at St. Petersburg bears the name of the imperial bank, date and number of issue, signature of a mandarin, and contains even a list of the punishments inflicted for forgery of notes. This relic of 4,000 years ago is probably written, for printing from wooden tablets is said to have been introduced in China in the year 160 A. D.

Financial Item.

Young Snobberly is a Fifth Avenue (New York) Dude, who has more money than brains. The Snotberlys are neighbors of Jay Gould, and the families are quite intimate. Gould having thrown out a hint that he would give his young friend some pointers, young Snobberly bought of Gould a few hundred thousand dollars' worth of a certain stock, which paper Gould assured his young friend was perfectly good.

A few days afterwards Snobberly rushed into Gould's office, pale as a piece of Swiss cheese, and dropped into a chair.

"Mr. Gould, you have treated me outrageously. I thought you were a friend of the family."

"So I am, Snobberly. Why, what can the matter be?"

"That stock you sold me at ninety-five is only worth twenty cents. You told me the stock was good."

"Oh, no, Snobberly, I did nothing of the kind."

"I asked you if the paper was good, and you said it was."

"That's a different thing. The paper on which those certificates are written is as good paper as ever I saw. It is fine linen paper. I say still the paper is good. If you had asked me about the signatures on the paper I could have told you at once that they were no good, but that's not what you asked me. All you wanted to know was if the paper was good, and I still say that it is. It is only what is written and printed on the paper that is valueless. What, going already! Good morning, Snobberly.

"It is astonishing, Mr. Sage," said Gould, turning to an old gentleman at an adjoining desk, "how many men there are who take everything for granted. Joaquin Miller deceived himself in the same way."—Siftings.

A Valuable Customer.

A merchant who has the patience to successfully deal with the Arkansas woman who wears a green sun-bonnet and who is accompanied by several children may not be recognized as a commercial hero, but in the opinion of thinking people, he is greater than a man who taketh a city.

"Howdy," she says, entering the store.

"W'y, how do you do, madam? What can I do for you?"

"I want to look at some calico."

"Yes, step this way."

"You John! Behave yourself. Let that alone," taking a cast iron plow point from the boy and throwing it on the floor. "Never mind the calico jest now. Believe I'll look at some jeans."

"Yes, mum, step this way."

"You Wily. Come away from that dog. John, put down that bucket. Tildy, get up offen that floor. Now look what you done, Wiley." The boy has overturned a stack of crockery-ware.

"Oh, that makes no difference," says the merchant, though a mother less blind could see that, in painful anxiety he is watching the children.

"Have you got any brown jeans—the right brown?"

"Yes, I think here is some that will suit you.

"Wiley, come away from that water-bucket. Now, look at you." He has upset the bucket, deluging his sister, who "squeals" in deafening cadence.

"Never mind the jeans right now. What's these ingon sets worth?"

The merchant informs her.

"Same kind you had last year?"

"Yes, I think so."

"Wall, them I got here last year wan't no 'count. Is the mustard seed fresh?"

"Yes, just got them."

"You, Wiley, dont scatter that straw that way. John, quit scouria' round in that dirt. Wall, here's pap with the wagin. Er good day to you."—Arkansaw Traveler.

FLOATING GARDENS.

How They are Secured and Kept in Place.

Places Where Indian Corn, Vegetables and Flowers Grow Luxurantly.

'We visited the celebrated floating gardens,' writes a correspondent in Mexico. 'When a tract of vegetation composed of reeds, water plants and busher, intervoven and laced together, becomes so dense that it will bear a superstructure, strips of turf twenty to 30 yards long by two yards wide are cut from some suitable firm place, floated to it down the canal and laid upon it; this is repeated several times, and thus an island is securely raised two or three feet above the level of the water, a little soil is spread over it and it becomes a chinampa, or floating garden, on which Indian corn, vegetables and flowers are grown. The gardens vary in size from 100 to 200 feet in length and from twenty to 100 in width, according to the nature of the vegetation which supports them.

'To secure these gardens in their proper places long willow poles are driven through them into the ground below, where they soon take root. The poles also throw out roots into the beds of the floating gardens, and so hold them steady.

'We took a line of street cars and were landed near an old Spanish bridge, alongside of which we found a number of miserable flat boats covered with awnings, with a seat on each side, covered with red calico. We held our noses, as well as our breaths. Upon leaving the city the canal is lined on both sides with beautiful trees of the species of the weeping willow, only that they are quite tall. The city gate, or local custom house, is then passed. Here are to be seen many boats laden with lumber, firewood, vegetables, fruit, flowers, etc., waiting to pay toll. A large daily revenue is derived from this source by the government. The stalwart Indians swiftly pole the boat up the stream for about ten minutes more, and Santa Anita is reached. This is an old Indian village, which has undergone few or no changes for the last 300 years, if we except the public school for boys and girls and a small church. It is a favorite pleasure resort for the inhabitants of Mexico, especially during the summer months, and it is rendered doubly attractive by the numerous chinampas or floating gardens found in its vicinity, on which are grown in remarkable abundance vegetables of all kinds and beautiful flowers, which are sold for a mere trifle.

'The water in the canal was the color of dishwater. At Santa Anita we entered a narrow ditch just wide enough for our boat. The little boy who pulled the boat with a long pole worked manfully. We passed by a number of women washing clothes on the banks and using a flat stone as a washboard. The gardens surprised and pleased us. Here was a small strip of land of, say, 20 feet wide by 100 deep, surrounded by water, producing the finest of onions, another cabbages, another radishes, another carrots, another flower, and so on, for at least a mile—a succession of the finest cultivated gardens I ever saw. These Mexican Indians are the best gardners in the whole world aside from the Germans. Their methods are rude, but they know how to cultivate their garden patches. On our return we met boat loads of boys and girls singing and laughing as they slowly glided along. It was not a Venetian scene, but it showed that the brown-shouldered, black-eyed Indian girl could talk and dream of love.'

The 'thought-reader' placed his hand on the man's head, withdrew it and struck him a fearful blow on the nose. When the man got out from under the chair, and asked the reader what he had hit him for, he replied: 'Just as I placed my hand on your head, you thought I was a blame big fool; and I don't allow anybody to think that, no matter if he's as big as a house.'

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, MAY 14TH, 1885.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

EX-GOVERNOR Gilbert C. Walker, of Virginia, died at New York on Monday morning, May 11th, in his fifty-second year.

THE condition of General Grant's health is not near as good as it was. His doctors say that the cancer with which his throat is afflicted, shows bad symptoms and will finally prove fatal.

REV. SOLOMON NEITZ, one of the most prominent clergymen of the Evangelical Association, died at his residence at Reading, on Monday morning, at the age of 74 years. Rev. Mr. Neitz, preached 45 years, traveled about 30 years, was presiding elder 18 years and occupied the greater part of his time the pulpits of the larger churches of the denomination in Philadelphia, Pottsville, Pine Grove, Allentown, Lebanon and other places. For many years he represented the East Pennsylvania conference in the general conference of the United States.

GOVERNOR PATTISON'S veto of the Veteran Burial bill, requiring the commissioners of every county to appoint in the several wards and townships of their respective counties a certain number of persons to look after and cause to be buried in a decent and respectable manner the bodies of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines who served during the late rebellion or any preceeding war and draw warrants upon the treasurer of the county for the expenses of said burial and a proper tombstone, deserves the credit of all taxpayers. The legislators offering said bill allowed their patriotic feelings to run away with them and would impose a most extravagant expense upon their constituents. It would create an indefinite but likely a very large number of salaried officials. The governor also very plainly shows that neighboring states would naturally try to get rid of their improductive soldier population by sending them to Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12, 1885

A move is on foot in Washington to reorganize the Democratic party in the United States, by perfecting a Democratic club in each township of the United States. The president of each town club to form the Democratic county committee, which is to elect one of its members as a member of a State executive committee. The cardinal principles, aside from Jeffersonian Democracy, to be the election and appointment of none but Democrats to office or official position. The abolition of the civil service foolishness, if carried out, as it probably will be, the present administration will be forced to become Democratic or be lamiuated to imperceptible thinness between the full ranks of Republicans held in office and deserving Democrats who are not recognized as they deserve to be. In nearly all the departments Democrats who were exultant two months ago, are almost insulted each day by their high headed Republicans co-laborers who are in an immense majority. A portentous sign of the times is the fact that "Brick" Pomeroy's paper, the United States Democrat, which has an actual circulation in every State and Territory as a Democratic stalwart, has called for advices from Democrats at several thousands of post offices, asking if Democrats are satisfied with the retention of Republicans in office and what will be the effect of their retention on the next political campaign. The publication of replies to those questions will be an important header and is looked for with much interest by politicians.

The new Pension Office building is nearly completed. Four rooms on the ground floor, southeast corner, are already occupied by wagon loads of documents and stationery, as the work of moving has begun. This building is 400 feet long by 200 feet wide, and four stories high. It has an immense area or court yard, large enough for several circusses to exhibit on. Four great brick pillars, about 12 feet in diameter, run from near each end of the court yard to a height of nearly 100 feet, as supports to the iron bridges which form supports to the iron and glass roof. Balconies extend around the inside of the edifice so that clerks can pass from room to room outside, and so that thousands of visitors can look down into the court yard. It is the largest brick building in the world. Thirty six millions of bricks have been used in its construction. Eighteen hundred clerks will be employed here in the pension department alone, and each will have plenty of light and air. Not another public building in the United States compares with it for comfort and solidity. It is built of brick, and iron girders and bands, so that it is virtually knitted together. The foundations are planted more than thirty feet below the surface. More than 100 workmen are now engaged here putting the plastering and flooring to a finish. It is to be ready for occupancy, the lower floor, this month, the others early in the summer. General Meigs, a stalwart Democrat, is the architect. Gen. Black, the present Commissioner of Pensions, accompanied by his wife, visited the new building a few days since and were greatly pleased with it. The watchman, a North Carolina man, who has been here from the first, showed them about. Watchmen are employed day and night to see that the building is not entered and lumber, iron and other material are not stolen away, for there are persons even here in Washington who seek to acquire wealth without labor or paying for the same. Wonder where they come from ?

The Department of the Interior will soon determine whether the cattle kings, holding in the Indian Territory under their illegal leases, are to remain in their open defiance of the administration or not. They hold their leases under Republican rule, and declare that they have already squared themselves under the present administration. The dog will wag its tail, or the tail will soon have its dog tied fast.

President Cleveland and a select party went to the Gettysburg anniversary on the 4th instant. The President said he wanted to see the place, and would have no time to talk. From the time he left Washington until his return, he did not speak more than a thousand or so words, and thus set an example that nearly drove the others mad. There are several persons in Washington who talk more than Cleveland does, but he don't seem to catch on. PHONO.

The Cold Wave in the West

Snowing in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, May 7.—Considerable snow fell in this section yesterday and last night. The thermometer fell below the freezing point.

The weather throughout the northwest is very cold, fruits badly damaged but no field crops injured.

A Cold Wave in Iowa.

DESMOINES Iowa, May 7—A cold wave struck Iowa last night, and at some places west of here, ice formed half an inch thick and the thermometer was four degrees below the freezing point after sunrise. Some damage has been done to small fruits, but field crops do not appear to have been hurt much.

Blinding Snow in Michigan.

DETROIT, May 8.—Reports received from the western part of the lower peninsula state that a blinding snow was falling there to-day. No reports have yet been received as to the damage to the crops from last night's cold weather. It will probably be a day or so before any damage can be noted.

Miscellaneous News.

Mangled by Dynamite.

A Number of Workmen Frightfully Injured by a Blast on the Cornwall Hills.

LEBANON, May 7.—Full particulars have just been received here to-day of a frightful explosion of dynamite on the Cornwall ore hills, operated by the well-known Coleman heirs, near Miners Valley. A large number of natives and foreign laborers are employed in loading and mining ore. A number of holes had been drilled preparatory to blasting. These were loaded with strong dynamite torpedoes, after which the superintendent, Patrick Cunningham, told the men to run. They took to their heels, but before all the workmen got away a sufficient distance the blast exploded with a noise like that of thunder. The earth literally quaked and six men were hurled down a steep embankment and some fatally mangled by flying rocks.

Cunningham had been cautioned before to give the men plenty of time to get out of the way of all danger. Great indignation prevailed over the entire ore hills and it was feared at one time that the men would do bodily harm to Cunningham, as he was blamed for the accident in not giving the men sufficient time to get away.

The Militia Still on Guard at Lemont.

LEMONT, Ill., May 7.—Although the strikers are still in a sullen mood no fresh outbreaks are anticipated. The militia will not leave, however, until all danger is over. A citizens' meeting last night demanded the immediate withdrawal of the troops. Their demands were not complied with. Sheriff Hatchette is here to-day, inquiring into the condition of affairs. The strikers in small squads are returning to work and it is expected that in a few days there will be a full force employed in the quarries. No further evidence in regard to the killing of the strikers by the militia will be heard until to-morrow.

The American Bible Society's Work.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The managers of the American Bible Society met yesterday and made appropriations of $41,703 for work in Persia, China, Russia, France and South America. This makes the aggregate sum appropriated for the foreign work of the society for the current year $172,850; grants and consignments of books for distribution in the United States and other lands of the value of $12,400. One Bible society was recognized as auxilliary in Mississippi and one in Iowa. Total receipts for April, $28,283.44, and 117,250 volumes were issued.

Taylor to Hang July 16.

HARRISBURG, May 7.—The Governor to-day issued a warrant for the execution on July 16 of Joseph Taylor, who murdered his keeper in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Wonderful.

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Sept. 25th, 1880.

"Very seldom do we read of an actual case of recovery, where hope had altogether been lost, to parallel that which was Monday investigated by a Dispatch reporter, who had heard in various quarters persons talking to their friends of a cure, seemingly little short of marvelous, that had been performed. The plain facts in the case referred to, without exaggeration, are these, as they were learned from the mother of the young man, his pastor and other persons well known in the community:

"William Lincoln Curtis is the name of the young man in question. He is now employed at H. K. Porter & Co.'s locomotive works in Pittsburgh, Pa. A year ago he resided with his mother on Grant street. About that time he went to bed one evening with a violent pain in his shoulder, the result, he thought, of a cold. The next morning the shoulder was greatly swollen, the pain was intense, and aches were felt all through his system. His case was speedily developed into a violent form of chronic rheumatism, among the first notable features of which was the paralysis of his left arm.

"He gradually grew worse, and in a few months the elbow and knee joints and both ankles became enormously enlarged. In March last the cheek bones began to enlarge, and upon his left side particularly, spreading his face out of all resemblance to his former self. The pain in all his joints became intense; fever, with its deteriorating effects, was now added, and he became rapidly reduced to the semblance of a skeleton, while vitality reached its lowest possible condition, and his sufferings were of such an indiscribable character that those who most loved him sometimes thought it would be better if he was called away. At this time physicians well known in Pittsburgh informed his parents that they could give no hopes of recovery.

"The young man finally commenced taking that wonderful medicine, PERUNA. In two weeks quite a change for the better, was perceptible. In six weeks all the enlargement had been reduced completely, while in spirits and strength the patient was quite as well as he had ever been in his life. Nearly three weeks ago he resumed work as a machinist at his old place, able to perform as much labor as ever in his life.

"The mother of Willie Curtis, in stating all these facts, said: 'Indeed, I can not look upon the cure much less than as a miracle. I do not hesitate in sounding the praise of PERUNA, and in recommending it to all my friends.'"

The pastor of the church where the young man attended Sabbath school was visited, and he readily confirmed the facts of the deformed bones, the emaciated condition from disease, and of the doctors having given him up. He was greatly surprised at his improved condition. Said he, "If he had not spoken, I would not have known him."

On Friday, May 8th, a spark from a locomotive set fire to the great lumber yards situate on both sides of the Chicago river and near the southwestern city limits. The flames ate all the lumber, covering an area of about 400 by 2,000 feet, and containing 45,000,000 feet, valued at $700,000. Several small frame houses occupied by employes in the lumber district were destroyed. The fire department, however, succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames into the residence district of the city.

Twenty-three Thousand Men to Strike.

CANTON, Ohio, May 10.—John H. McBride, president of the Miners' state association, said to a reporter yesterday that the Tuscarawas district miners will soon strike. They think the proposed reduction will make wages too low to afford a living. Twenty-three thousand miners and 700 other employes in the district will be made idle.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Stiles, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

Do not forget the place--Penn street, opposite Hartman's foundry.

—The council at its last special meeting on Saturday evening leased ground of D. A. Musser for twenty years to erect a carriage shed thereon for the purpose of housing the Hook & Ladder Truck. It will be a frame building 16 x 30 feet, 9 feet clear in heigth, with a false front, built over the Mill race south of the Hardware store. Wm. Miller and P. H. Musser were awarded the contract for the building. The building will be large enough to accomodate the bandwagon, for which space the band will pay rent.

—A party of about thirty little girls gathered at Squire Reifsnyder's residence on Main street last Thursday evening in honor of their daughter Jennie's 10th birthday. By all reports a splendid time was had and the little folks enjoyed especially the bountiful feast of delicacies which the kind landlady had prepared for them and to which they did of course full justice.

—Mrs. E. J. Brumgard, who had been to the eastern cities to purchase millinery goods, returned last Friday and her goods are also on hand. The lady is well-known for her good taste and her patrons will find at her shop on Main street an excellent selection of Hats, Bonnets, Trimmings, Laces, &c. Ladies, call on her and rest assured you will get the best of satisfaction.

—Rev. Deitzler and family arrived on Monday evening and his goods were expected to reach Coburn station on Tuesday. Last night the members of the three Lutheran congregations on this charge agreeably surprised the new comers with a large donation of useful and necessary articles, and pastor and people spent a very pleasant time at the parsonage.

—Increased buoyancy of spirits, perfect assimilation of food, improved appetite, gain in flesh, sound refreshing sleep, heightened color in the cheeks and lips, added brilliancy to the eyes, follow the use of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. A bottle or two used in the family would obviate the entire train of spring maladies. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

—We notice by the Bellefonte Watchman that J. C. Harper, the former prothonotary in this county, after a thorough examination, through which he went successfully, was admitted to the Centre county bar. Another lawyer for Bellefonte and it surely isn't the fault of the mountain city if the country does not go according to law. We congratulate Cal on his promotion and expect to see him become one of the brightest legal lights.

—The circulating library, which has been instituted in this town by S. B. Hench, the gentlemanly agent, from Northumberland, was started on last Saturday at the Journal book store, with B. O. Persons wishing to become members after this will please apply to the librarian.

—We are in receipt of the first copy of "The Times," a small advertising sheet published at Mifflinburg by G. W. Foote, a former publisher of the "Berichter" in this town. The editor in his editorial very forcibly says that "The Times is an experiment and will only be published as long as it pays. Should it prove a success and be too small for its patronage, it will be enlarged." Hope George may prosper in his new enterprise.

—Messrs. C. F. Deininger and H. K. Luse, of this place, are the manufacturers and agents for Ellison's Ironing and Pressing Board, and have the right of sale in the borough of Millheim, and in Penn, Haines and Gregg townships. The board is one of the handiest inventions out. It may be adjusted to any table and furnishes a stationary and firm support for ironing. It is made of good wood, strongly put together and can be folded up to a convenient size, when not in use. The price is $2.00 and its merits are such that no housewife should be without one. Call on C. F. Deininger or H. K. Luse, Main street, Millheim, Pa. 3t

—MANY children suffer from day to day; puny, palid, fretful and feverish, variable appetite and restless sleep, finally die, and their parents never suspecting the real cause, that the little sufferers' stomachs are infested and eaten through with worms. Twenty-five cents invested in a box of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders would save the doctor's bills and the patient's life. Entirely vegetable. Easy and pleasant to take. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

—On a recent visit to Lewisburg we had the pleasure of being chaperoned by that prince of fellows, C. A. Sturgis, who shortly after our arrival at the Union county capital took charge of us and showed us the interesting sights of the city. The nail factory was one of the first places we were taken to and we were agreeably surprised at the lively rate that factory is running. That enterprise certainly is a most valuable industry for Lewisburg and can not fail to make a boom in business. Another notable sight shown us was the fire department building, with its fine engine and a splendidly furinshed room on the second story for the meetings of the company. Accompanid by Mr. Cornelius, the photographer, we were taken to the top of the fifty-foot tower, from which lofty place the eye is treated to one of the grandest sights in the state. The scope of the whole city and seyeral miles up and down the Susquehanna present a fine panorama and it was truly a rich feast to behold the beautiful picture.

As our stay was but a short one we had to decline the warm invitation of our friend Sturgis to accompany him to other places of interest, but we left the town with the satisfaction of having had a good look at Lewisburg's most attractive points and having enjoyed the genial company of Sturgis, Cornelius and Harris.

—Rev. W. H. Day, D. D., of the A. M. E. church, Harrisburg, preached a very able sermon in the Methodist church at this place on Sunday forenoon. A large audience was in attendance and a liberal collection was lifted for the benefit of colored young men who are being educated by said church. Rev. Day is a fine speaker and handles his subject with great care and ability. He preached at Rebersburg on Sunday night.

—From an exchange: "It's amusing when soliciting, to hear a man say, 'it doesn't pay to advertise.' Why does this man put out a sign ? That's advertising. Why does he obstruct the pavement in front of his store with samples of the goods he sells ? This is advertising. Why does he daub the head of a mackerel barrel or dry goods box with the words: 'ALL oUr gOods chEap,' and stick it in a keg of beans or a pile of calico in his store ?

—In pursuance of a call for a meeting by the committee on organization a number of citizens assembled in the grammar school room on Penn street for the purpose of organizing an association, to be styled "The Millheim Hook & Ladder Co., No. 1."

Twenty-five members were enrolled and the company adopted a constitution and by-laws. The following were elected the officers for the ensuing year: Pres. Dr. D. H. Mingle; Vice Pres. C. W. Hartman; Sec.—R. A. Bumiller; Treas.—A. A. Frank; Foreman—J. H. Maize; 1st Assistant Foreman,—W. L. Bright; 2nd Assistant Foreman—Sam. Weiser, Jr.; Ladderman—E. J. Brumgard; Assistant Ladderman—Loyd Auman.

The time and place for the regular monthly meetings will be the last Monday of each month in the grammar school room. The secretary was instructed to transcribe the constitution and by-laws of the company and submit a copy of the same to the town council for approval A special meeting for this evening was called by the chair to transact important business and enroll more members. The Hook and Ladder Truck is expected to arrive this week. The first meeting of the company was very harmonious and all present took great interest in the work.

—Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person. But few try its effect on their own charms. Nor need they, since Ayer's Hair Vigor prevents the hair from turning gray, and restores gray hair to its original color. It cleanses the scalp, prevents the formation of dandruff, and wonderfully stimulates the growth of the hair.

AYER'S Hair Vigor cures baldness. Hair Vigor restores youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It attains these results by the stimulation of the hair roots and color glands. It rejuvenates the HAIR and cleanses it. It restores to the HAIR that, either by reason of age or diseases of the scalp, has become dry, harsh and brittle, a pliancy and glossy silken softness of extreme beauty. There is no dye in Ayer's Hair VIGOR and the good it does is by the it imparts to the follicles, and the cleanliness and healthfulness of the condition in which it maintains the scalp.

AYER'S Hair Vigor renews the hair. Hair Vigor is the best cure known for Brashy Hair, Scald Head, Itching Humors, Tetter Sores, Torpid Follicles, and all other diseases of the scalp that cause the falling of the HAIR and its fading. Nothing cleanses HAIR of the nuisance of dandruff so perfectly, and so effectually prevents its return, as AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. In addition to the curative and restorative virtues peculiar to Ayer's Hair VIGOR it is a toilet luxury. The Hair is by far the cleanliest hair-dressing made. It causes the hair to grow thick and long, and keeps it always soft and glossy.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Contains no deleterious ingredients. Its use prevents all scalp disease, secures against the hair growing thin or gray, and surely cures all baldness th is not organic.

A STUTTERER'S STORIES.

Witticisms of a Prominent New York Millionaire.

Sayings that Have Made William R. Travers Famous in the Metropolis.

The New York Times says that perhaps the most popular man in the city among Wall street bankers and brokers, up-town club men patrons and followers of the turf, and members of the New York Athletic Club and the Racquet Club is William R Travers. Although a thorough and well-informed man of business, an able financier, and a capitalist, he is known best through his geniality, his kindly feeling toward young men, and his witty and humorous remarks. Tall and erect, he carries his 70 years as briskly as a man of 40. In public places Mr. Travers is inclined to be reserved, and glimpses of his humor have depended on his intimate acquaintances for circulation. His wit never screens malice, but it frequently stings, being at times near the truth. But above and through all is an obstruction of speech that in most cases has added to the humor of his sayings, and so many of them have passed current in late years that it seems appropriate to gather together the best of those that have appeared in print at various times:

A former acquaintance in Baltimore met him in Broadway, and, turning aside, began to chat with him.

'You stammer more since you have lived in New York,' the friend remarked in the course of the talk, 'than you did in Baltimore.'

'B-b-bigger place,' Travers replied

At the call of the list in the Stock Exchange a dispute arose over a bid for a stock. Mr. H. G. Stebbins is credited with being the gentleman in opposition to Mr. Travers. Stebbins asserted that he named the price.

'It may be that Mr. St-Stebbins g-got through b-before I did, b-but I'll b-be hanged if I didn't b-begin b-before h-he did,' Travers replied.

The stock was awarded to him.

A story told about him in Brooklin relates to a visit there to attend the wedding of the daughter of a friend who lived in Montague street. It was his first visit in the neighborhood, and after he had ascended the stairs half way up the hill from the ferry he went astray in Montage-terrace, and was at length compelled to ask for directions.

'I desire to reach M-Montague street,' he said to a passer by. 'Will you b-be k-kind enough to p-oint the way ?'

'You are g-going the wr-wrong way,' was the stuttering reply. 'That is M-Montague street.'

'Are you m-making fun of me, m-mimicking m-me?' Travers asked, sternly.

'No-no, I assure you, Sir,' the other replied, with all due haste to repair an apparent lack of good manners. 'I-I am b-badly af-afli-aflicted with an ob-struc-struction of speech.'

'Why d-don't you g-get c-cured ?' Travers asked, with mischief in his eyes. 'G-go to Dr.—— and you'll g-get c-cured. D-don't you see how well I talk ?' He c-cured m-me.'

Two raps for Henry Clews, the banker, are recorded. It has been a frequent boast of Mr. Clews that he is a self-made man. Travers heard him on one occasion, and immediately dropped into a sort of reverie with his eyes fixed on Mr. Clew's bald pate.

'Well, what's the matter, Travers ?' Clews asked, somewhat impatiently.

'H-Henry,' Travers inquired, 'didn't you s-s-say you were a self-made man ?'

'Certainly; I made myself,' Clews replied warmly.

'Then, when you were ab-b-bout it, why d-didn't you p-put m-more h-hair on the t-top of your head ?'

The famous Vanderbilt ball exercised many gentlemen on the question of characters and costumes. Mr. Clews was in a quandary, and he applied to Travers for a suggestion. It appeared that Travers had taken advantage of his friendly relations with Wallack, Mapleson and Abby by sending inquiring friends to them for permission to select from their theatrical wardrobes. The story goes that the managers had mildly hinted to Travers that patience with the 'fashionables' had ceased to be a virtue, and Travers was not inclined to favor any more.

'Clews,' he said, after some reflection, 'why d-don't you sh-sh-sugar coat your h-head and g-go as a pill ?'

Besides knowing how to rap others Travers knows when he receives a rap. Going up town with several brokers, Travers spied a man selling parrots in front of St. Paul's church.

'H-hold on, boys,' he said mysteriously, 'we'll have some f-fun.'

Hailing the parrot seller and indicating one of the birds, Travers asked: 'C-can that p-parrot t-talk ?'

'Talk ?' the man replied with a contemptuous sneer. 'If he can't talk better than you can I'll wring his blamed neck.'

'C-come on, b-boys,' Travers called out; 'this f-fun is p-post-p-poned until another d-day.'

A young friend, who had taken his advice in regard to a fortunate speculation and withdrawn his money from Wall street, bought a house. Subsequently Travers met him and asked how the house suited. 'The house is all right, Mr. Travers,' the friend replied; 'but I am very much troubled with rats.' 'G-get a c-cat,' Travers suggested. 'I've had a dozen, but the rats actually drive them out of the house.' 'G-get a d-dog,' was Travers's second suggestion. 'I know where you c-can g-get a g-good d-dog.' He recommended his friend Harry Jennings, the dog fancier, and agreed to go and help in selecting a dog. One was thought worthy and Jennings having put a dozen or more rats in a pit, it was thrown in to show how quickly it could kill them. The dog killed all except one—a gray bearded old rat almost as big as the dog—which seized the dog by the lower lip and held on. The dog yelped with pain and tried to shake off the rat, but without effect. Travers, who was thoroughly excited and running around the pit, shouted: 'B-buy the rat! B-buy the rat!'

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A traveling man, representing an Eastern house, had for a companion while in Texas a native of that State, and he found him very valuable. One day they reached a town and going to a hotel, they put up for the night. About three o'clock in the morning the Eastern man was awakened by the Texan, who told him that the house was in the hands of a mob, looking for a New York man who had put up a job on the towns people and got away with four thousand dollars.

'Where is the mob?' stammered the traveler, while the cold chills ran a foot-race down his spinal column, with side tracks around the ribs.

'Comin' up stairs, lookin' for the dutfer,' answered the Texan, enjoying the prospect of having some fun.

'But I'm from New York, and they may make a mistake, wailed the traveler, scared worse than ever.

'No, they won't neither; all yer got to do is to look sick, an' you bet the boys ein't a goin' to hurt a sick man.'

'Look sick, thunder!' groaned the New York man. 'There's no need of looking sick. I am sick. Sick? I never wos so d—— sick in my life, and if I get out of this scrape with a whole hide I'll give up my job before I'll get caught in Texas again.'

Powerful Water.

Uncle Zack Baker, of Benton county, is interested in a mineral spring. He has not attempted to introduce a bill offering the spring as an amendment to the constitution, a piece of legislation, though, which may be expected of him.

'What is the water good for?' asked the speaker of the house.

'Good for everything. It will cure any case of the yaller janders in the world. Tell you what's a fact. A fellow came along some time ago with a yaller dog. He was the yallerest dog I ever saw, but he fell in that spring and when he came out he was as white as a sheet.

'How is it for rheumatism?'

'I'll tell you what's a fact. Do you know young Alf Wilson?'

'I think so.'

'Well, Alf had the rheumatiz so bad that he had to carry one leg on his shoulder. He drank that water for three weeks and can now jump a ten rail fence.'

'Will it cure lying?'

'Will it? Tell you what's a fact. A Little Rock newspaper man come up here some time ago and now you can almost believe half of what he says.—Arkansaw Traveler.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Improved Western Washer
PRICE. No. 1 for family of 6..... $8
No. 2 for large family..... 9
No. 3 for Hotel and Laundry,.... 10
Over 20,000 in use.

Thousands of ladies are using it, and they speak of it in the highest terms, saying that they would rather dispense with any other household article, than this excellent Washer. No well-regulated family will be without it, as it saves the clothes, saves labor, saves time, saves fuel, saves soap, and makes washday no longer a dread, but rather a pleasant recreation, as much as such is possible,

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.
The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.
DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
